BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Beyond Class, Race, and Religion: Saving the Catholic African American Orphans of Baltimore Adults

After the Civil War, a number of institutions were founded in Baltimore City to care for orphaned and neglected children. However, only a handful of these orphanages admitted African American children and most were affiliated with the Catholic Church. Amy Rosenkrans, PhD, will discuss the history of two of these orphanages, Saint Frances Orphan Asylum and Saint Elizabeth's Home, along with their importance to Baltimore's African American community.
